Dicksons have a great reputation as good shippers, and their shipments command good prices. Sundswall deals are very good and easy to work, and are generally free from knots and sap. We get but few Prussian deals; but they are useful for carpenters or rough work, the large knots and coarse grain rendering them unfit for anything else. Norway deals run of small scantling, but much is of very good quality; when this is the case they bring good prices, but when they are bad no wood can be worse. Sap, knots, wane, and shakes are then in abundance, so that even a firewood manufacturer would not be anxious to buy them. In square or balk timber Riga, Memcl, and Dantzic are the staple, but the...
